COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MAY 24, 1916.

NUMBER 30

AN ADDRESS.

To The Democrats of The 8th Congressional District of Kentucky.

The long, continued control of the Federal Government by the Republican party resulted in the wanton and unbridled license of the interests, accentuated by Cannonism, and finally culminated in the revolt of the Progressive element of that party.

The entry of the democratic party into power has been marked by effective and aggressive reforms—achievements in remedial legislation that are soon to be judged by the American people. Among the measures that have been enacted by the democratic congress during the Wilson administration and that have rendered it the best asset of the democratic party in our state and nation, are:

The constitutional amendment providing for the popular election of the United States Senate, whereby the people are given control of that body instead of the trusts and monopolies; the Federal Reserve Banking Act, which took control of credit from Wall street, and lodged it in the hands of the government, to be administered for the benefit of the masses instead of the classes; the income tax provisions, whereby some of the burdens of taxation are placed on the idle rich, compelling them to bear their just share of the necessary expenses of maintaining the Government; the Trade Commission, designed to regulate and control the prices of the necessities of life, the action of public utilities, and preventing interlocking directorates; the Agricultural Extension Act, granting aid through agricultural and mechanical colleges, to the several states, by means of field instruction and demonstration in agriculture and home economics; the standardizing of grades of grain; the Federal-Controlled Warehouses, stabilizing prices, preventing dumping of crops during harvesting season, and consequent depressing of prices, and furnishing the farmer with prime mercantile commercial paper, acceptable to the Federal Reserve Board; appropriating liberal sums for government aid for improvement of roads; adequate appropriations for the eradication of infections and contagious diseases among stock; a system of rural credits, whereby farmers may secure loans at lower rates of interest and on more favorable terms; a Parcel Post that furnishes the producers the best and cheapest delivery wagons to the largest markets at the highest prices; and a rehabilitated merchant marine that will again place the American flag on the ocean trade lanes of the world. The fruition of this legislation is the most unparalleled prosperity with which any administration was ever crowned.

The administration has, so far, preserved peace with the world, under the most exasperating and trying circumstances. It inherited an unprepared army and navy from the Republican party that had been in almost continuous control of the Federal Government since the Civil war, both of which it has promptly reorganized in accordance with the reasonable demands of the situation, and at the same time has entered into peace treaties with twenty-six nations of the world.

As one who has contributed a modest share to this program, by remaining constantly on the job and consistently aiding in putting through democratic congresses all the foregoing wholesome legislation, I confidently submit my candidacy for renomination for representative of the Eighth Kentucky district in the Sixty-Fifth Congress to the democratic voters of this district, believing that those who endorse and approve the record as, in part, set out will not rebuke those who have contributed in however slight a degree to its accomplishment. My experience, especially, in these critical times, should be an asset rather than a liability.

I had hoped, in view of the recent small democratic majorities in our district and state, that the democrats might profit by the get-together movement now on among the common enemy to the end that vote losing contests within the party might be avoided, and our state be more certainly placed in the democratic column in the coming November election, when a most desperate effort will be made by a reunited political enemy to capture control of the Federal Government.

The small democratic majority in the House necessitates my presence in Washington as much as possible, and for the present, I am compelled to depend upon my friends to safeguard my interests in the district.

I submit my record to you, and shall cheerfully abide your verdict at the primary, August 5th, 1916.

Very Sincerely,
HARVEY HELM.

Birthday Social.

On Friday 3:00 p. m., a birthday social was held at the residence of Dr. James Menzies in honor of Miss Annie May's eighth birthday. There were present: Master Thomas L. Menzies, Miss Frances Browning, Miss Katie Taylor, Miss Emma Louise Menzies and Amanda Laura Menzies. The very pleasant hour was spent in plays, games and swinging, after which the lunch of strawberries and cream and cake were served on the grassy lawn, under the shade of the trees on a spread with cushion pillows for seats. The happy company wished the host many more happy returns of the occasion.

Delay is dangerous. So be in Columbia Saturday and help start the work for closing of the contract for the railroad.

Very Much Enjoyed.

Miss Catherine Nell very gracefully entertained at a six o'clock dinner last Friday afternoon. After a delightful meal strawberries and cake followed. After refreshments several hours were spent in games and listening to music. The following were invited:

Dora Eubank, Mary Breeding, Alene Ritchey, Buba Wagoner, Mildred Walker, Eva Walker, Dorothy Gill, Mamie Tandy, Julia Miller, Myrtle Morgan, Frona Faulkner, Mary D. Patterson.

A good horse for sale, cash or credit.

Dr. W. F. Cartwright.

Very Remarkable.

There was a scene in Columbia last Friday forenoon that is not often witnessed. Seated in Gowdy's wholesale store was Mr. Green McKinley, who lives at Glenville, this county, and who was 90 years old the 28th day of last February, and his son, Solomon McKinley, who was 70 years old in December last, conversing with friends. The older gentleman's mind is active, and he is perfect in giving dates of past occurrences. His eyesight is good and he reads the newspapers and books without glasses. He has living four great great grand children. He is enjoying fine health and bids fair to reach the century mark.

The June number of the American Magazine should be ordered by readers who want to keep abreast of the times. What is going on in Europe is told by writers who are in possession of the facts, and the book is of special interest. It also has articles dealing with this country, one especially tells how the United States is taking Germany's place in the chemical world. Everything in the June number is worth reading. Address American Magazine, 387 Fourth Ave., New York City.

A mare which was valued at two hundred dollars and which was owned by Mr. J. B. Cave, who lives in the Holmes section, killed herself one day last week. She got her foot hung in the bridle, reared up and fell backward, her head striking first, knocking her brains out.

Mothers' Day exercises at the Christian church next Sunday forenoon. An appropriate program is being prepared, and the meeting will be of special interest.

Born, to the wife of George Shirley, May 16, a daughter, mother and infant doing well.

BIG GATHERING.

Railroad Meeting in the Court-House Next Saturday at One O'clock.

Don't Fail to be Present if You Want a Road Built to Columbia.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF YOUR LIFE.

We now have a plain proposition—no road, no pay, and if the people of this county let this go they may never get another chance to secure a railroad, and certainly not within the near future. The organization herefore created, through its board of directors, failed to secure the building of the road on the plans outlined, and through negotiations with the promoters have secured a proposition requiring the people to put up $50,000 and the right of way. A change in the form of subscription is necessary and immediate action is desirable so that the contract can be closed and the survey made. This matter should have the active and enthusiastic support of every person in this section and not permitted to drag. We are bound to get up a few more thousand dollars, and the sooner the better. No road, no pay, means no loss—it suits us all. Below we give a telegram confirming the acceptance of the proposition agreed on by the board of directors and Dr. Hunter.

Seriously Injured.

Lebanon, Ky., May 22—Mrs. M. H. Rorer, of Middlesboro, who is here on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. J. S. Sterrett, was the victim of a serious accident at the home of her daughter. She fell down flight of stairs, receiving, it is thought, a fracture of the skull and other injuries. She is in a semi-conscious condition.

Mrs. Rorer is a native of Columbia, a sister of Mr. M. Cravens, and her many friends here are anxious concerning her condition.

Don't fail to be in Columbia Saturday.

Mr. L. M. Young will start in a very few days a first-class soda fountain and an ice cream parlor. His place of business will be in the same building that Mr. J. F. Patterson conducts a general store. The main store room was extra wide, and Mr. J. N. Coffey, who owns the building, has had a petition run through the room, making two business apartments. Mr. Patterson will continue at the same stand, and Mr. Young will occupy the extra room made by running the petition. Mr. Young will have his apartment elegantly furnished, making it a most inviting place.

Closing of the Lindsey-Wilson.

Last Friday night marked the closing of the 13th year in the history of the Lindsey-Wilson Training School. In many respects this has been the most successful year of the school since its establishment. The girl's dormitory has been full the greater part of the last session and the new boy's dormitory has been crowded with several rooming in the old buildings, but the most marked advancement has been in the number of months that each pupil has remained in school. The number in school at commencement was almost as large as at any time during the term. The grade record shows a large per cent. of high grades. This success in academic work is due to several factors. The comfortable and well regulated quarters of the students contributed largely to it. An earnest body of students has been a dominating influence, and the spirit of all toward the school has been good. The support of the people of Columbia in upholding the discipline in so far as it affected them, has been gratifying to the management of the school.

Last Tuesday night was the recital of the graduates in music and expression. The young ladies, Miss Virginia Coffey, who graduated in expression, and Miss Carrie Willan, who graduated in music, rendered a very entertaining program showing excellent talent and training. On Thursday night was the recital of the music and expression class. The program was a credit to all who took part as well as their teacher Miss Gwendolyn Bayless, and was enjoyed by one of the largest audiences that ever filled the school building. The following young ladies took part: Misses Frances Strange, Mary Harris, Elizabeth Harris, Maxine Moss, Dollie Elliott, Esther Dodson, Myrtle Morgan, Lucy McFarland, Grace Huffaker, May Feese, Alyce Cann, Ruba Wagoner, Mary Shelley, Margie Buster, Clarice Webb and Salie E. Murphy.

On Friday night was the graduating exercises of the senior class and the literary address by Bro. S. G. Shelley. Bro. O. P. Bush, pastor of the Baptist church, gave the invocation. This was followed by a melodious song "Night in June," by a chorus of young ladies. The graduates delivered the following orations: Mr. Marvin Perryman, "Noble Living"; Miss Ruth Hynes, "Opportunity"; Miss Edna Chevington, "What Constitutes Success"; Mr. Edgar Harris, "Choosing a Vocation." Bro. Shelley then delivered an inspiring address. His subject was "My brother and I." This was followed by a piano duet by Misses Willan and Bayless. The diplomas were then presented and the benediction pronounced.

It is necessary for us to raise the $50,000 at once if Dr. Hunter and associates are to build the road.

Mr. Will Jones, of this place, who has the reputation of being a good fisherman, took his wife last Saturday afternoon, whom he married two weeks ago, and went fishing. Mrs. Jones was reared near Green river and she, too, knows how to angle for the finny tribe. The two fished until the time arrived to return home, and comparing strings, Mrs. Jones had five perch, one 19 inches long, and Will had two.

The trustees will clean up the Cemetery by the 30th of May. I expect every one who have lots there to clean and beautify their own lots. We know of no exercises of any kind, but all can show their dear departed ones by simply having their resting places decorated on the 30th day of May.

Miss Sue Baker, who is a compositor in this office, met with a very painful accident last Tuesday afternoon. She had reached her home, and in passing over the premises, she stepped on a piece of plank in which was a nail. The nail passed through the sole of her shoe and penetrated her foot. The nail was rusty and her foot at once commenced to swell, so much so, that she had to remove her shoe, and up to this writing Thursday afternoon, has not been able to wear it. It is hoped that the accident will not keep her from the office but a short time.

The 17th of this month was Mrs. F. A. Rosenbaum's birthday. Her mother and sisters who live near Glenville, came in and spread a magnificent dinner, which was highly appreciated and very much enjoyed by all the participants.

There is no red tape on the railroad proposition this time and it is up to the people of this section to act at once or lose the opportunity of securing the road. Come to town Saturday.

TRIBUTE TO THE OLD SOUTH.

Bob Taylor's Tribute to Southland Most Eloquent of Tongue and Pen.

Perhaps the most eloquent tribute ever paid the Old South by mortal tongue or pen was that of Bob Taylor, three times governor of Tennessee and later United States Senator. Following is his tribute to the Old South, taken from his matchless lecture, "The Old Plantation."

"There was once a civilization in the land of my nativity more brilliant than any that ever flourished in all the tide of a romantic story of vanished dreams, holier and sweeter by lips that are hushed and hearts that are now dust, and there is little left but the memory of its departed glory, lingering among the tombstones and monuments like the fragrance of flowers that are faded and gone. It ruled from a throne of ebony and made the world its tributary. It opened the floodgates of wealth and deluged the earth with gold. Its realm was the Sunny South, the paradise of cotton kept by the dusky sons and daughters of Ham amid its magnolia scented labyrinth of shade waled the chivalry and beauty of a lordly race.

It was a proud and imperial civilization but like the Great Caesar, it fell with a hundred gaping wounds, and its bleeding corpse dissolved into ashes long ago on the funeral pyre of war.

I would not stir your hearts to pity nor recall those gaping wounds to-night; but rather let me lift the veil of memory and give you a glimpse of the golden days of the old plantation before our Caesar fell.

There half hidden in the groves of live oaks and magnolia trees, where the mocking bird chuckled and laughed, and the twittering blue birds built their nests, stood the white columned mansion of the master, where life reaches the high tide of baronial splendor.

And stretching away to the horizon were the snowy cotton fields alive with toiling slaves who without a single care to burden their hearts sang as they toiled from early morn till close of day.

Every sunrise of summer was greeted by the laughter and songs of the darkies as they scattered in gangs and went forth in every direction to begin the labors of the day, and the music floated back to the mansion to sweeten the morning dreams of the drowsy lords and ladies who still rested on their pillow.

The negroes of that day were the most musical and humorous race of people who ever lived in the world, and they wove a melody into every task they performed, every leisure hour was filled with their mirth and merriment, and they were imbued with the spirit of Christian religion and were firm believers in the providences of the Almighty. There was not an infidel among those millions of slaves.

I sat on the veranda of an old plantation home in the gathering twilight of evening and listened to the chiming of the distant village bells and the responsive hymn of the weary negroes as they came home from the cotton fields singing.

The negro quarters around the mansion were the shrines of innocent pleasure, where the dusky revelers gathered every night with banjo and fiddle to play, to pat and sing and dance away the long happy hours.

I have heard them play and sing until the very heavens seemed to turn into sheets of music; every star was a note and every constellation was a song. I have seen them dance until the smoke of pleasure of the bonfire swung corners with the moonbeams in the air. I have heard them laugh until the ripening corn grinded through the shuck and tickled chestnut burrs spread their mouths and chuckled. The old darkies and their kinky headed pickannies formed a circle around the dancers and all pattered and sang together, keeping time with the music.

I have heard them hum to flying shuttles and the clank of the drumming batons and beat time to the music of whirring bobbins and great hanks of cotton and wool melted away like snow in June and then reappeared in ponderous bolts of jean and linsey.

And then I have seen them in the sewing room and heard the snip of shears and the grating of thimbles, and the singing of the thread till the last garments were finished and the black bodies were made proof against the chilling blast of winter.

And then, in the dreamy day of autumnal glory when its gold was on the forest and the mellow poured amber on the russet fields. I have watched my mother as she sat beside the window in her big arm chair knitting for the slaves. The rhythmic movement of her graceful fingers was visible music; it was magic in yarn; and the big white ball cut capers on the floor.

And her needles danced like witches, And those nimble fingers flew As they deftly threw the stitches, And the great white stocking grew. But as each autumn came and went I saw new silver in her hair and new lines of coming age in her beautiful face and her love lit eyes grew dim; and then, at last, with my old black mammy, they buried her on the hill, and my father too is sleeping there."

Danger of Draft.

Drafts feel best when we are hot and perspiring, just when they are most dangerous and the result is Neuralgia, Stiff Neck, Sore muscles or sometimes an attack of Rheumatism. In such cases apply Sloan's Liniment, It stimulates circulation to the sore and painful part. The blood flows freely and in a short time the stiffness and pain leaves. Those suffering from Neuralgia or Neuralgia Headache will find one or two applications of Sloan's Liniment will give grateful relief.

The agonizing pain gives way to a tingling sensation of comfort and warmth and quiet rest and sleep is possible. Good for Neuralgia too. Price 25c at Pauli Drug Co. Adv.

Where Kentucky Leads.

In the recent address before the Advertisers Club of Louisville, John H. Sutcliffe, of the Inland Farmer, brought out the following interesting facts regarding agriculture products in Kentucky and its relative position among States of the South.

Kentucky leads all states in the production of tobacco, hemp, sorghum cane, and in thoroughbred horses.

The tobacco crop of 1915 was 369,000,000 pounds, more than one-third of the total crop of America

There were 22 states in the Union last year that produced farm products valued at $160,000,000, Kentucky was one of these.

Kentucky is the tenth state in the production of corn, its yield last year being over 115,000,000 bushels.

Kentucky stands seventh in the Union in the production of apples, its crop in 1915 being 12,400,000 bushels. There are nearly 15,000,000 bearing fruit trees in the State of Kentucky.

There are more registered Jersey cattle in Shelby county, Ky., than in any county or state in America.

The show rings of the world have demonstrated the value of Kentucky bred stock, not only horses and mules, but dairy and beef cattle, sheep and swine.

Among states located south of the Ohio River. Kentucky leads in nearly every agricultural product.

It has the largest white population of any state south of the Ohio river.

Seventy-five per cent. of its population is rural.

The value of farm property in Kentucky is over $800,000,000, being larger than that of any other state south of the Ohio river.

Among the states south of the Ohio river, Kentucky leads in the production of dairy cattle, horses, poultry, sheep, wool, corn, wheat and tobacco, and comes second in hay and potatos.

There are more silos in Kentucky than in all the other states of the Central South put together.

Land is Plentiful.

There is no land famine in the United States, notwithstanding the elimination of 11,200,000 acre from the public domain during the last year. The annual report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, just issued, shows that 279,544,404 acres are "unappropriated and unreserved. Of this area 172,987,912 acres are surveyed. The land available for homesteaders referred to in the report is distributed throughout twenty-five States, and in addition there are 300,000,000 acres available in Alaska. While the cheapest land is that offered to settlers, it does not appear that any one who wants a few acres in the oldest States will find difficulty in obtaining it from individual owner at reasonable prices. It might be said that the cost of moving a family beyond the Mississippi will go a long way toward paying for a farm in any of the New England States, and east of Hudson thousands of acres are awaiting tenants as buyers. The Eastern man of ordinary industry and thrift is not obliged to travel one or two thousand miles to find cheap land.—Providence Journal.

Lincoln and Davis.

There were remarkable coincidences in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis. Both were born in Kentucky; Lincoln in 1809, Davis 1808. Both removed from their native State in childhood. Lincoln to the Northwest, Davis to the Southwest. Lincoln was a captain of volunteers and Davis a second lieutenant of regulars in the Black Hawk war of 1832. They began their political careers the same year, 1844, Lincoln being a presidential elector for Clay, and Davis for Polk. They were elected to Congress about the same time, 1845 and 1846. They were called to preside over their respective governments the same year and within a few days—Davis, February 8, 1861; Lincoln, March 4, 1861.

The Nation's Leader.

Woodrow Wilson has been the nation's leader in the most trying three years of its history.

He has been the spokesman for humanity throughout the world at a time of international upheaval.

How great has been the restraint upon the embattled nations, because of their knowledge of the force behind the American President, probably never can be accurately estimated. It is certain, however, that had it not been for the moral leadership of Woodrow Wilson, there would have been no restraint at all upon the belligerents.

Under the leadership of President Wilson, the United States has given evidence of reserve power which has made all European actions, after each new move, await the verdict of America.

There has been no egotism, no noise and bluster, no attacks upon honest business men from the White House in the past three years. There has been no juking or excessive speech-making. President Wilson has handled the world power which destiny bestowed upon the United States at the present crucial period with faithfulness, discretion and the reserve strength that symbolizes the nation's greatness.

Is it any wonder that stalwart Republican newspapers, as well as those of independent or Democratic faith, have paid Woodrow Wilson the tribute of ranking him with Lincoln as one of the two greatest Presidents?

In the opinion of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, president of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission, who was the only delegate from Kentucky to the meeting of the National Conservation Commission, just ended at Washington, "the number of illiterates in the lowlands does not outnumber those in those in the highland of mountainous sections." Her subject was "The Prevention of Illiteracy." In the course of her remarks Mrs. Stewart said that eighteen States have copied the Kentucky law creating illiteracy Commission. Continuing

Mrs. Stewart said that while the campaign against illiteracy is a Southern movement, it is a becoming nation-wide, and Kentucky is the first commonwealth to take official cognizance of illiteracy among her people. While the State has given the commission only $10,000 to carry on the work, volunteers are numerous and wealthy people are contributing liberally to the work.

Announcements.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce that CHARLES F. MONTGOMERY, of Casey County, is a candidate to represent the Eighth District in the next Congress, subject to the Democratic primary to be held August 5, 1916.

We are authorized to announce HARVEY HELM, of Lincoln county, a Democratic candidate for re-nomination for Congress from the Eighth district, subject to the August primary.

Hon. Harvey Helm's candidacy for re-election to Congress is no longer in doubt. On our first page he publishes an address to the Democrats of the district, so eliciting their support in the coming August primary. Mr. Helm's public record, as a servant of the people of the Eighth district, is familiar to all, hence words from this paper are unnecessary. The race is now evidently made up, Senator Charles F. Montgomery, of Casey county, being Mr. Helm's opposing candidate.

President Wilson has accepted an invitation to be in Hodgenville September 4, to take part in the exercises making the formal presentation of the farm upon which Abraham Lincoln was born, to the Government. Senator John Sharp Williams and Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, will also be present and will make addresses. The occasion will draw people from many States, and Kentuckians will be there by the thousands.

In his address Saturday in the celebration of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, President Wilson said this country was trying to set the example of bringing all the world together upon terms of liberty and co-operation and peace, and in that great experience America had a sort of prophetic sample of mankind.

Hon. L. T. Neat, who was in Louisville last week, met a number of his Republican friends who live in the Eighth district, and the general expression was that he would not be opposed in the primary in his race for Congress.

WAR SITUATION

Washington, May 18.—Germany, through Count von Bernstorff, has instructed all German Consuls in the United States to admonish German citizens in their districts scrupulously to observe American laws. This was done in an effort to end various alleged violations of American neutrality.

The Ambassador acted on instructions from the Berlin Foreign Office. The action was announced in this official statement from the German embassy:

"In consequence of cases which have occurred of late the German Ambassador has sent instructions to all German Consuls in the United States strongly impress upon German citizens living in their districts that it is their duty scrupulously to obey the laws of the State in which they reside."

It was said at the German embassy that the instructions were designed to prevent plots or lawlessness on the part of German citizens who might be disposed to engage in such. The German Government, it was said, looks with great disfavor upon any such conduct and desires that they shall not engage in any undertaking in any way outside the law.

It was not disclosed whether specific cases have been brought to the attention of the German Government, but it was made clear that Berlin officials want the United States and its people to understand that they have not countenanced any illegal affairs with which German citizens or sympathizers in this country have been connected.

Count von Bernstorff's instructions were received and were forwarded to German consuls immediately.

Administration officials were much interested in the statement issued by Count von Bernstorff and expressed themselves as much pleased. It was said the instructions to German Consuls were not the result of any action by the United States. Officials thought the step might do much to relieve troublesome conditions which have manifested themselves almost since the beginning of the war.

It is understood the Berlin Foreign office learned that public opinion in this country was being affected by activities of sympathizers concerned in passport frauds, bomb plots and similar operations. It is thought possible that no new Germany or naval attaches will come to the United States before the end of the war, because German officials feel they would be subject to suspicion, and the German Government is represented as desirous of putting an end to activities objectionable to the United States.

GERMAN'S DEFEAT.

Several attacks were made by German troops on the Verdun front in an effort to capture a redoubt at Aocourt. The official statement of says the Germans were repulsed each time, and that they lost heavily.

French troops after severe fighting captured a German fort on the north-east slope of Hill 304.

The text of the statement follows:

"Between the river Oise and the river Aisne a strong reconnoitering party of the enemy, which was endeavoring to approach our lines in the neighborhood of Quennevieres, was subjected by us to a counter-attack and dispersed, leaving some dead upon the field, where the encounter took place.

"On the left bank of the river Meuse, after a spirited preparation by their artillery, the Germans endeavored several times last night to capture the redoubt in the wood of Avocourt. Repulsed each time by our fire, the enemy suffered very serious losses. As for us, we executed at a point to the north of Hill 287 at about 3 o'clock in the morning a surprise attack upon a German trench. The men occupying the position were either killed or made prisoner.

"At this same time of day

French troops took possession, after a furious engagement, of a small fort of the enemy on the north-east slope of Hill 304.

"On the right bank of the river Meuse and in the Woerre district, there have been reciprocal bombardments.

"During the night of May 16-17 French aviators conducted numerous bombardments along the front to the north of Verdun. For instance: Fifteen shells of large caliber were thrown down upon an important depot of munitions between Raucourt and Arracourt, ten kilometers (six miles) south of Sedan; five more on the railroad station at Sedan, where a fire broke out, and fifteen on a depot of munitions not far from Azannes. During the same night two French aeroplanes threw down eighty shells on the railroad station at Metz-Sablons.

"Aviators of the enemy during the night threw down several bombs in the vicinities of Lunéville, Epinal and Belfort.

They caused material damage of no great importance."

I will drop a few lines, hoping they will find space in your paper, as I can't write to all of my old friends in Adair county. I am liking fine. This is the finest farming country I was ever in. The man I am working for is running a farm of 320 acres. We have 90 acres of oats sowed and 80 acres of corn planted and have 100 acres yet to plant. We have been having lots of rain and on the night of the 13th we had a heavy electrical storm. The meadows are looking fine. Some of the farmers are done planting corn at the present time. My old friend, Clarence Hadley, is located about two miles from me. We see each other quite often. I get lonesome some times and would like to see some of my old friends in Kentucky. I am getting $28 per month, and my friend is getting $30. The people out here are friendly and have treated me nice. My boss and I go to town quite often. There is lots of pretty girls out here and this is leap year, I think they all want to marry.

Editor News:

While getting ready to go to Mexico I found my 22 revolver wrapped in an old Columbia paper of date May 28 1865, which gives some very interesting facts of that day and time. I will give you a few items of which might interest some of the older readers of The News.

First is in Zion items and is as follows: A large crowd attended the closing of a very successful singing school taught by Melvin L. White, there being not less than 2,000 people present. Dinner on the ground. In the afternoon Prof. White gave prizes to the best Bass and Tenor singers, the contestants being Aubrey Hurt, Jo Nat Conover, Rollin Hurt, Jack Stotts, Billie Rowe and Long Bob Conover. Judges, Wm. L. Stotts and Ed Garnett. After singing 25 or 30 songs they decided, Bass, Billie Rowe, Tenor, Robt. Conover, (the prize being a pound of candy) They adjourned at a late hour singing "God be with you till we meet again."

One item from Gradyville: last Sunday while Mr. Luther Wilmore was on his way to superintend Sunday school at Union, he was thrown from his mule and considerably shaken up, but nevertheless he went on his way. After a short distance he met with Virge Grissom, who was in pursuit of a calf.

"What kind of a calf is it, Virge?" said Bro. Wilmore. "Well, I can't tell exactly, but it's very small, kinder white spotted, just about the color of your whiskers, one horn off next to the fence, and a tail about as long as a little piece of rope." Well, well, said Bro. Wilmore, "that very calf is back yonder in the fence corner. He caused my mule to throw me and I just took out my 22 and shot him. Let's hustle on or will be late."

Hoping to meet Mr. White and Wilmore at the Columbia Fair,

James T. Logan.

I have on hand some buggy wheels and tops, backs and cushions. Come quick for a bargain.

Europe and Mexico has raised the price of food stuff and no ar ticle plays a greater part than corn. So it behoves each and every farmer to raise more corn.
It is not necessary to plow more land to do this but it is necessary to put more work upon the land and upon the crop. The soil should be first put in first-class shape and all manure used that is to be had and then shallow cultivation and lots of it. The corn crop in Kentucky is never more than half worked, hence our low average per acre as com pared with some other states.
Work your crop well this year if you never did before.—Owen

Sell off all inferior pigs and hogs by way of the butcher as soon as they are fit. Get them fast as it is possible.

Filthy water or swill never ought to be put into any hog's

In a statement issued Wednesday, the foreign trade department of the National City Bank, in New York City, says that more than $350,000,000 worth of horses, automobiles and auto accessories have been exported from the United States since the war began. France and her allies received the major portion of these exports.

The size of business often has much to do toward making the farm profitable. Farm-management records show that farms are often either too small or too large for the most successful farming. There may be too few as well as too many acres. A man may not have enough land or he may be "land poor" thereby rendering all his acres unprofitable.

Losses of sheep during the year ending April 1 were: From disease, 2.16 per cent., compared with a ten-year average of 2.48 per cent.; from exposure, 2.17 per cent., compared with a ten-year average of 5.11 per cent. The loss of lambs from disease and exposure, 5.22 per cent., compared with a five-year average of 5.99 per cent. If we can gain as much every year we will soon be down to a minimum.

The general average of food prices in the United States in 1915 was one per cent., below the average in 1914. We are at peace!

Enormous increases in food prices are reported by consular agencies from Europe. Vienna has suffered most. Meat that sold a year ago at twenty cents a pound is now forty-seven cents a pound. In Berlin Beef rose from 22c to 35c a pound; veal from 22c to 38c; pork from 20 to 30c, bacon from 32c to 64c, ham from 30c to 58c. Eggs at 80c a dozen are twice as high as last year, says Country Gentleman.

Prices in Great Britain are given as 44 per cent., higher than a year ago. In France the increase has been 23 per cent. The increase in Italy is only slightly lower. The food scarcity in Turkey is said to be appalling.

With all our modern science and efficiency War and Famine continued in partnership.

The New York World requested 200 of the leading editors of the country to answer by telegraph the following question:

"Should the number of men in the new army be fixed approximately at 250,000 as in the senate bill, or 180,000, as compromised by conference?"

"Should the federal volunteer provision be included in final bill?"

The answers thus far received give the following result:

Number of editors in favor of an army of 250,000 men—eighty-three.

We are beginning to hear our farmers complain of the dry weather. We had a very light tobacco season one day last week and a very few were ready for transplanting tobacco. However there was a few acres transplanted in this section. From what we can gather if there should come a season in the next few days, the majority of the tobacco crop would be set in this section, as there is an abundance of plants.

A SQUARE MEAL BEATS POETRY

To the Average Man the Material Comforts Count Most.

For the average person, unblessed with riches, it is the material comforts of life that count. That "we want but little here below" is a truism, but to be without that little is keenest hardship.

A good meal isn't poetical, but the honest declaration, "I can eat a hearty meal without discomfort," has a better sound to the average man than the best line ever penned by poet.

It is after long loss that the material things, when won back, seem so much better.

Of all the ailments that afflict humanity, chronic dyspepsia probably is the most common. Its causes and characterizations are many. Skilled specialists have been unable to cope with this almost universal malady, but Mother Nature, in combination with skill and chemistry, has compounded in her exhaustible laboratory a marvelous remedy for this trouble.

The symptoms of this common disease, which is only a forerunner of more complicated maladies, are many. Belching after meals, frequent nausea, pains in the region of the stomach, and a tired feeling, are only a few of the indications. Dyspeptics become listless, then morbid, are melancholy over trivial things, have whimsical ideas, besides physical sufferings, and with appetite gone, sleep fitful, dizzy spells and frequent nausea life hardly seems worth living.

Tanlac was designed to check this distressing condition, and to restore a healthy, normal appetite, bring good, restful sleep, and banish that tired, nervous feeling—in short, to restore the stomach to the habit of doing a full day's work and doing it well. Tanlac, the ideal reconstructive tonic, is being especially introduced in Columbia, at the Page & Hamilton drug store, where the Tanlac man explains its merits and the results that can be expected from its use.
